It's Okay

This week in assembly we shared the 'The Okay Book' by Todd Parr. This is a simple picture book which highlights and celebrates that we are all different and unique and most important that "it's okay to be different." We recapped our school values with a particular focus on kindness and respect. Our values are something which we regularly revisit which support our inclusive and respectful culture within school.

Barley Mow Needs You!

In school we want the children to aim for the stars and have the highest of ambitions. We want to expose them to as many jobs and careers as possible in the hope that they will find something which excites and motivates them for the future. We are looking for ex pupils of Barley Mow to share their jobs and roles in society with us so that we can create a career aspirations board. This will include photographs of people who all attended Barley Mow and what their job role. We want as many different job roles as possible so if you came to Barley Mow (or you know someone who did) and you are now a carer, hairdresser, doctor, retail worker, graphic designer, personal trainer ... the list could go on and on we would love you to email us a photograph with your job title to add to our collection. Photographs can be sent to our school email address
